Opening of new northbound lanes on the Augusta Highway

The Australian and South Australian governments have committed $260 million (80:20) to the Augusta Highway Duplication Project. This includes the duplication of the Augusta Highway from Port Wakefield to Lochiel. The Augusta Highway is the key road corridor between Port Wakefield and Port Augusta and forms part of the National Land Transport Network, providing crucial connectivity to regional South Australia and interstate.

The project has delivered several key benefits, including safer roads for all users, improved freight efficiency, reduced travel times, and a more reliable road network.

Starting from 9am Monday 3 March 2025, motorists will be able to use two lanes in each direction on the Augusta Highway, between Beaufort and Lochiel. The northbound lanes will be operational while the existing dual carriageway (heading toward Port Wakefield) will be reverted to southbound-only traffic. Right turns from side roads across the duplication will also be reinstated.

Ongoing works at the intersections and along the highway will require temporary speed restrictions and traffic controllers to manage safety.

Clear signage will be in place to guide motorists through new traffic conditions, including at intersections across the dual carriageway. On completion of these works speeds will progressively increase to 110km/h by late March 2025.

Some property access may be temporarily impacted during the works, but we will do our best to maintain access in the area. The project team will contact affected property owners, residents, and businesses directly in advance.

Your patience and cooperation during these essential works are greatly appreciated.
